

Glorious Gardens of Norfolk with BB&O area of NAFAS

Thursday 6 to Sunday 9 May 2027

4 days/3 nights with accommodation at 4* Knights Hill Hotel & Spa near Kings Lynn

Your visits include:

Anglesea Abbey is a fascinating house and garden, built around the remains of a medieval priory. Its gardens feature distinctive garden rooms, avenues, woodland walks, an arboretum and sweeping parkland, while the estate also includes the restored, working Lode Mill.

West Acre Garden is a lovely old walled garden and the extensive display gardens have year-round interest and beauty.

Stody Lodge Gardens are renowned for their spectacular spring displays of rhododendrons and azaleas. The 14-acre gardens feature winding paths, mature trees, lawns, woodland walks and the remarkable Azalea Water Gardens. They will be opening exclusively for this tour.

Hoe Hall is a charming private garden surrounding a Georgian rectory in the Norfolk countryside. Its principal feature is the walled garden, with mixed borders, climbers, herbaceous planting, box parterres and espaliered fruit trees.

Stow Hall is a beautiful 20-acre private garden at Stow Bardolph, near King's Lynn. Restored and developed by Lady Rose Hare, it is known for its extensive rose collection, colourful herbaceous borders, ancient trees, woodland walks and walled orchard with rare local apple varieties. In May, the garden is particularly attractive as the spring planting develops and early roses begin to flower.

Cambridge University Botanic Garden is a beautiful 40-acre garden featuring more than 8,000 plant species from around the world. Its landscaped gardens, arboretum and glasshouses offer year-round interest, while the garden also supports the University's teaching and plant research.
